<http://www.belvoir.army.mil/cidc/index.htm>

CID

Commander: Brig. Gen. Daniel A. Doherty
Headquarters: Fort Belvoir, Va.
Established: Sept. 17, 1971

Mission: CID investigates felony violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and other criminal provisions of the United States Code in which the Army has an interest. The agency also provides protective services for senior Defense Department and Army leaders, and supports field commanders and communities to solve major and violent crimes.

Responsibilities: As the primary provider of criminal investigative support to the Army, CID operates a forensic laboratory, criminal records repository, procurement fraud unit and counter-narcotics investigations. It solves crimes, assesses the potential for crime and prevents felony crimes against the Army, its soldiers, family members and employees. CID also provides forces for peacetime and battlefield investigations — including logistics security, criminal intelligence collection, criminal investigations, protective services operations and war crimes investigations.

TRADOC

Commander: Gen. William W. Hartzog
Headquarters: Fort Monroe, Va.
Established: July 1, 1973

Mission: Serve as the architect for the 21st century Army, while ensuring that the Army is prepared to fight and win wars today. It does this through:

Training — Develop and maintain the Army's institutional training base. Leaders and soldiers are trained at 16 combined arms schools and 10 combined arms support schools on 16 installations.

Doctrine — Sustain a shared vision of how the Army operates as a member of joint service, combined arms and multinational teams. The vision is kept relevant by leading intellectual growth.

Combat developments — Identify requirements for America's Army with a spirit of innovation that will enhance the broader Army process that translates concepts and requirements to production and acquisition. To assist in these efforts, TRADOC integrates the activities of 10 battlefield laboratories, which develop and experiment with concepts in battlefield dynamics.
